

Civilizations of the World -- The Visual Project

In addition to your written paper, you are expected to create a presentation. This can be a physical presentation (something to look at) or a performance (something that is watched). This project should complement your paper. Think of it as an alternate way to present your topic. Your visual project should also have a thesis statement (like a topic sentence for a paragraph).

Ideas that you might consider:

(If you have another idea about your project, get it approved by your teacher.)

monologue or speech (pretend to person) 3D model or diorama video powerpoint

music/performance

posterboard presentation

RUBRIC

	Needs Improvement	Satisfactory	Outstanding
Content - the information you include	The observer leaves unclear of the topic or with little knowledge about it	Visual gives the observer a basic knowledge of the topic	Content includes details, evidence, and support
Analysis - the way you put your ideas forward	Jumbled or random facts or information	Has a point or purpose - teaches or explains a concept	Advocates an idea, thesis, or analysis - presents and defends opinion
Presentation - How neat, attractive, and/or practiced	Looks thrown together at the last minute	Obvious time spent to make it attractive; well-	Refined or stands out; original or unique

your project is		prepared
-----------------	--	----------	--