

Fill in the blank	CLOZE	Sentence Frames
There is one correct answer, usually a single word or short phrase. Often used to determine factual knowledge or recall.	Words are taken out of a passage, usually every 7-10 words. They can be any part of speech. There are sometimes multiple answers. Used to determine ability to use context clues and understanding of syntax.	Gives a structure with academic language and sentence construction. There is more than one possible correct answer, or it is used to share or explain ideas. Often used to determine factual or conceptual knowledge or to instruct on academic language.
Blood transports _____ from the lungs to cells. Blood returns _____ from cells to the lungs.	All _____ in your body require oxygen. The respiratory _____ cardiovascular systems work together to supply oxygen to the cells. To start, air enters the _____. In the lungs, oxygen from the air _____ to blood. The blood then transports, or carries, the _____ to cells in the body. Cells use _____ oxygen and produce carbon dioxide. Blood returns the _____ dioxide to the lungs. From there, _____ is exhaled into the air.	One function of the _____ is to _____.
The two fertile river valleys in India are the _____ and the _____. The monsoon in India brings warm air and rain from the Arabian Sea during the _____ and cool, dry air from the Himalayas during the _____.	India's first civilization grew up near _____ Indus River. When the summer monsoon began, the _____ rose higher and higher. When the river flooded nearby _____, it left behind silt, a rich fertile land. _____ used the rich soil to grow crops to _____ their families. Because people had a plentiful supply of food, they could spend their time doing other _____. As people began to trade their extra food and goods, _____ wealth grew.	_____ contributed to the growth of India's first civilization by _____.